LOIS MUELLER

has been a force in the rosemaling world since she first started painting in 1979. A gold medalist since 1998, she has written 9 instruction books, taught innumerable students and produced an enviable body of work (a few pieces of which we are proud to carry!). And as if all that weren't enough, in 2004 she and her husband Ron began to import stones from Norway and set them in sterling silver, creating a beautiful and unique line of jewelry. Their aim is to help people feel connected to their heritage, and they do an excellent job!

SØLJE - NORWAY'S TRADITION

Sølje is Norway's traditional silver jewelry. Its dangling spoons once were thought to reflect evil from the wearer, protecting one from trolls and other dangers, especially in times of transition. Particularly appropriate for babies and brides, in our time its sparkling loveliness is appreciated by all!
